Truist Email Practices

Truist is aware of the threat that phishing poses to clients and we strive to ensure our email practices do not cause confusion.

Truist will not

- send you an email asking you to pay your dues by clicking on a link within the email.
- send you an email asking you to pay your dues by dialing a phone number and entering your personal information which may include a card number.
- send you an email asking you for confidential information like serial account number, ATM PIN, Social Security number, or mother's maiden name.

Protecting Yourself

You should always go to the Truist.com site and click on the Online Payments link to make a payment. For additional information, please refer to Truist's Security Central section.
